EXERCISE #:10

READ THE TEXT AND ANSWER THE QUESTIONS:

☐ Take a Hike!

Hiking is more beneficial than walking

Do you like walking or hiking better? Some people think they are the same, but they are different. Walking is on flat ground. When you start walking, it is easy to continue. Daniel Ferris is a professor of biomechanics. He explains walking is “passive dynamics.”

Passive means not active. Our body is passive when we walk for a long time. Hiking is more difficult than walking.

Hiking is on uneven terrain. The ground is not flat. Paths go up, down, and sideways. This change causes our body to work more. This helps the muscles in your legs. Hiking is a better workout than walking. Hiking uses 28% more energy. Stanford University says hiking is good for your mind, too. Seeing and smelling nature puts a smile on your face. Hiking is healthy for your body and mind.

1.- Are walking and hiking the same ?

No, they aren't.

2.- Which one is better for our body ?

Hiking is better for our body.

3.- Is hiking good for your mind ?

Yes, it is.

4.- What does Daniel Ferris think about walking?

It's passive dynamics.

5.- Hiking uses 60% more energy .

TRUE – FALSE

6.- Seeing and smelling nature puts a smile on your face.

TRUE – FALSE
