3 Underline the correct words.

One of the most mysterious crimes in history were the Jack the Ripper murders. Five women were killed in east London, UK, during three months in 1888. The police never a committed / solved the crimes. They b looked for / caught and found many clues and c suspected / questioned suspects but nothing helped them.

The detective who d committed / investigated the murders, Inspector Frederick Abberline, never e suspected / caught the murderer – he never even f solved / arrested anyone. No one ever g paid a fine / went to prison for the murders.

Even today we have no idea who was h innocent / guilty of the terrible crimes.

READING 1

- 1 Look at the poster. What kind of animals do people smuggle?

People smuggle endangered animals.

Watch Out for ANIMAL SMUGGLERS!

Imagine this situation. You're at the airport waiting to collect your suitcase. A man is standing next to you. He picks up a large leather suitcase from the baggage carousel. His bag moves.

What do you think?

- a There must be something alive inside his bag.
- b It's none of my business.

You look closely at the suitcase. It moves again.

What could it be?

- a It can't be a person. It might be an animal.
- b I don't know and I don't care.

He picks up the bag and looks around him. He looks nervous.

Who is he?

- a He might be an animal smuggler.
- b Sorry, I have no idea.

He picks up the bag and looks around him. He looks nervous.

Who is he?

- a He might be an animal smuggler.
- b Sorry, I have no idea.

The bag moves again.

What do you do?

- a Call a customs officer.
- b Nothing.

THE CORRECT ANSWER TO ALL THESE QUESTIONS IS A.

Animal smuggling is cruel. Many of the animals that people smuggle are endangered species that should not be removed from their natural habitat. A large number of them die during the journey because they travel in boxes, suitcases, or even inside people's clothes.

Animal smuggling is a crime. Buying and collecting smuggled animals is illegal. Punishments can include heavy fines and imprisonment.

Sleeping Snakes in a Suitcase

Customs officers in Jakarta arrested two men suspected of having animals in their suitcases. The men were trying to fly from Indonesia to Dubai. When airport officials looked in the men's bags, they found 40 pythons. The snakes had been given drugs to make them sleep. The suspects were questioned by airport authorities and the pythons were taken to the animal quarantine center at the airport.

Tiger Smuggling in Thailand

Police caught a 31-year-old woman trying to smuggle a baby tiger into Thailand. The tiger cub was inside a suitcase with a toy tiger. Although the woman had drugged the animal to keep it quiet, airport officials noticed that one of the two tigers was moving when they scanned her suitcase. The smuggler went to prison for six years.
