READING

❖ Read the text and circle T (true) or F (false).

When Sally woke up, her bedroom seemed very bright. She got out of bed and drew the curtains. Outside, the whole world was white. It had snowed heavily during the night and it was still snowing. Suddenly, she heard a noise downstairs. She could hear someone walking around the kitchen. She got dressed quickly and ran down the stairs. She went into the kitchen. There was no one there. Her dog, Ben, was sleeping in the corner. Then, to her surprise, she noticed that the back door of the cottage was open. She was sure she had locked it the night before. She looked at her watch. It was exactly eight o'clock. She opened the door and looked outside. There were fresh footprints in the snow, leading away from the house towards the forest. Sally was worried. Perhaps a thief had come into the house during the night. Then she remembered she had left her handbag on the kitchen table. She checked it. Everything was still there – her passport, her purse, her money, her keys. What had happened? Who had been in her house? She decided to follow the footprints and find out. She put on her coat, hat and boots and went outside. It was about 50 meters from the cottage to the edge of the forest. The footprints were very large. She followed them for a few minutes and then, suddenly, the footprints stopped...

Use this word bank and literary genres as well .

ADJECTIVES - WORD BANK

Brilliant	Gripping
Amazing	Dreadful
Fantastic	Complicated
Exciting	Moving
Boring	Funny
Slow	Superb
Terrifying	Unbelievable
Childish	Interesting

The best book I've read is called "Harry Potter and the Goblet of fire". I like reading fantasy books because I think it's superb, gripping and exciting. You are transported to other realities, experience new settings and fly your imagination. If you ask me, I love this genre because there is always something exciting happening and you just want to read the story all in one go.
