First Conditional

- 1 Read the sentences below. Underline the if clause and circle the consequence.
- a If you want to be a successful band, you'll need at least one singer.
  - b If you don't practice, you'll sound terrible.
  - c You'll need an image to make you different if you want to become famous.
  - d Your fans will love you if you have a unique image.

2 Look at the sentences in activity 1. Choose the correct words to complete the rules for the use of the first conditional.

- a We form the first conditional with if + simple past / simple present, will / won't + main verb in the base form.
- b We use the first conditional to talk about possibilities in the past / future.
- c Use a comma when the if clause is at the beginning of the sentence / the end of the sentence.

- 3 Now complete the charts with the words provided.

don't like    'll be    sings    won't sell

if clause	consequence
If people don't like your image,	they won't buy your songs.
If you practice,	you' 'll be a good singer.

consequence	if clause
You won't sell anything	if you aren't a good singer.
The singer will become famous	if he sings well.

Read and listen. What do you think a dot-com company is?

They are companies that use the Internet to sell their products and services.

Dot-com Companies

Silicon Valley is south of San Francisco. It's home to many large technology companies such as Apple and Hewlett-Packard, and also many dot-com companies. These are companies like Google, Facebook and eBay, which operate mainly over the internet.

But where did the dot-com company come from?

In 1985, the World Wide Web was first introduced to the world. A company called Symbolics became the first company to register its address, or URL, on the web. Today, there are 200 million websites in existence, and one domain is registered every three minutes in the UK alone. But it took a long time for the internet to become the phenomenon it is today. It was when Sir Tim Berners-Lee put up the first website in 1990 (info.cern.ch), that the internet took off. During the 1990s, there was a dot-com boom. Many people became rich because of the World Wide Web. In 1998, PhD students Larry Page and Sergey Brin invented Google. These days, this search engine is the world's most recognizable brand and, in 2011, it was valued at $192 billion.
