Future Tense: will

+	I / You / He / She / It / We / You / They	'll go.
-	I / You / He / She / It / We / You / They	won't go.
?	Will I / you / he / she / it / we / you / they Yes, he will . / No, he won't .	go?

- we use will / won't + the infinitive without to to make predictions about the future
I think that movie will win a lot of awards.
- we can use definitely when we are certain about something in the future and probably when we think something is likely
That film definitely won't win any awards!
Most films will probably be in 3D in future.

Future Tense: be going to

+	I	'm going to come.
	You	're going to come.
	He / She / It	's going to come.
	We / You / They	're going to come.

—	I	'm not going to come.
	You	aren't going to come.
	He / She / It	isn't going to come.
	We / You / They	aren't going to come.
?	Is he / she / it going to come?
	Yes, he is . / No, he isn't .

- we use be going to to talk about future intentions
- we also use be going to when there is evidence in the present that something is very likely to happen
- we form sentences with be + (not) + going to + infinitive without to
They aren't going to watch a movie.

Present Progressive for Future Arrangements

- we use the present progressive for definite plans and arrangements in the future.
- we use it with future time expressions, such as this evening, tomorrow, on Friday, next week
I'm meeting my friends on Friday.
- we form the present progressive with be + verb + -ing
