New studies recommend 15,000 steps every day

Do you walk a lot each day? Some people walk 5,000 steps. Other people walk 10,000 steps. New studies show that humans need to walk 15,000 steps each day. People living in the Amazon were studied. They are called Tsimane. The Tsimane people walk more than 15,000 steps daily. Their healthy hearts help them live twenty eight years longer than people in the United States. They are examples of how to use the human body.

Another study showed that 15,000 daily steps help stopping heart disease. People get fatter when they sit for a long time. Their waists may grow two centimeters. Researchers say we must walk 15,000 steps every day. But, 15,000 steps take 3 ½ hours to walk. Most people do not have extra time. A good strategy is to walk 100 steps each hour. Go walk and stay healthy!
